DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 6, 9, and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kohler ("Language adaptation of multilingual phone models for vocabulary independent speech recognition tasks").

Regarding independent claim 6, Kohler ("Language adaptation of multilingual phone models for vocabulary independent speech recognition tasks") discloses adaptation techniques for cross-language transfer, comprising:

"assigning basic phoneme units to the phonemes of the target language, which basic phoneme units are described by respective basic phoneme models which are generated with the aid of available speech data of a source language different from the target language" – "a target language" is German and "a source language" is a model set of any of five languages AE (American English), IT (Italian), FR (French), PT (Portuguese), and SP (Spanish) (Page 419: §3.1 Scenario for cross-language transfer); a method for New-Training SCRATCH for the New Target Language begins with assigning phonetic labels for initialization of models (Page 419: §3.2 Bootstrapping Method for the New Target Language);

“and in which then for each target language phoneme the basic phoneme model of the assigned basic phoneme unit is adapted to the target language while the speech data of the target language are used” – after initialization, a process of six iterations of Viterbi training are performed for phonetic labels (Page 419: §3.2 Bootstrapping Method for the New Target Language); Viterbi-training is an adaptation of training models; alternatively, MAP-Adaptation (MAP) may be used to adapt a model to a new language from a limited amount of training material for 25 to 5000 utterances (Pages 419 to 420: §3.2 Bootstrapping Method for the New Target Language); Language Transfer from FR → GE, IT → GE, PT → GE, SP → GE, AE → GE, and IPA → GE with LDP-models is compared for BASE, BOOT100, and MAP100 adaptation methods (Page 420: §3.3 Language-dependent versus Multilingual bootstrapping: Table 3); implicitly, a limited amount of adaptation data of 25 to 5000 utterances from a target language is used to adapt models from a source language.

Regarding claims 9 and 10, Kohler (“Language adaptation of multilingual phone models for vocabulary independent speech recognition tasks”) discloses phoneme models for speech recognition.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1 to 5 and 7 to 8 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 22 December 2004 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection, necessitated by amendment.

Firstly, Applicant requests withdrawal of the objection to the Specification, as 37 CFR §1.77(b) discloses only a suggested format for an arrangement of the disclosure to require section headings. Applicant's argument is persuasive. It was the intent of the objection to provide an opportunity to conform to standard patent format in the United States. However, Applicant is not required to do so under 37 CFR §1.77(b).

Secondly, Applicant argues that "SAMPA" is a well-known international phonetic alphabet for European languages, and Applicant should not be required to rewrite the acronym in non-abbreviated form. Applicant's argument is persuasive.

It is noted that Wikipedia provides a definition: "Speech Assessment Methods Phonetic Alphabet (SAMPA) is a computer-readable phonetic script using 7-bit printable ASCII characters, based on the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA)."

Thirdly, Applicant has rewritten claim 6 as an independent claim, removing its dependency from independent claim 1, thereby necessitating a new grounds of rejection pursuant to amendment. Independent claim 6 does not contain any of the limitations of independent claim 1, and is broader than any originally-presented claim, so that independent claim 6 is now equivalent to a new claim. Applicant's arguments, directed to deficiencies of Kohler ("Multi-Lingual Phoneme Recognition Exploiting Acoustic-Phonetic Similarities of Sounds") ("Kohler I"), are moot, as "Kohler I" is no longer a basis for rejecting new independent claim 6. Now, independent claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being anticipated by Kohler ("Language adaptation of multilingual phone models for vocabulary independent speech recognition tasks") ("Kohler II").

Applicant's arguments are not directed to "Kohler II". Claims 9 and 10, dependent upon independent claim 6, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being anticipated by "Kohler II".

Therefore, the rejection of claims 6, 9, and 10 under 35 U.S.C. §102(b) as being anticipated by Kohler ("Language adaptation of multilingual phone models for vocabulary independent speech recognition tasks") ("Kohler II") is proper.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to Applicant's disclosure.

Bub et al. ('017) discloses related art.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
